Message from the Chairman of the Association of Chinese Enterprises in Austria

On the occasion of the official publication of the Membership Directory of the Association of Chinese Enterprises in Austria (2026), I would like to extend, on behalf of the Association's newly elected Board of Directors, our sincere greetings and heartfelt appreciation to all friends, partners, and members who have continuously cared for and supported the development of the Association.

Since its establishment in Vienna on April 27, 2017, the Association of Chinese Enterprises in Austria has remained committed to its non-profit mission, with the aim of serving Chinese enterprises and institutions in Austria and promoting their sound and sustainable development. The Association actively represents the common interests of its members, continuously strengthens communication and cooperation with government authorities and business communities in both China and Austria, and helps member companies integrate more effectively into the local economic and social environment. At the same time, it works to foster mutual understanding and cultural exchange between the peoples of China and Austria, and has played an active role in deepening bilateral economic and trade cooperation and promoting mutually beneficial outcomes.

Over the years, the Association's membership has continued to grow, representing a wide range of industries, including finance, telecommunications, manufacturing, automotive, construction and trade services. The platform's cohesion, representativeness, and influence have steadily increased, making it an important platform for communication, cooperation, resource sharing, and coordinated development among Chinese enterprises in Austria. The year 2026 marks the 55th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Austria. The Association has continued to serve as a bridge and link connecting various sectors of China and Austria. With a strong focus on serving member companies and promoting bilateral economic and trade cooperation, the Association has actively organized and supported a wide range of activities, including economic and trade exchanges, business cooperation, professional services, information sharing, and cultural exchange. It has also continued to deepen communication and cooperation with government authorities, business associations, and various sectors of both countries; further improved its member service system and information-sharing platform; and actively facilitated government-business dialogue, resource matching, and business cooperation. Through these efforts, the Association has helped member companies seize development opportunities, expand cooperation prospects, and enhance their operational capabilities, making a positive contribution to advancing practical economic and trade exchanges and cooperation between China and Austria.

Looking ahead, the Association will remain firmly committed to serving the development of its members and promoting China-Austria economic and trade cooperation. We will continue to enhance our professionalism, standardization, and internationalization, while further strengthening our threefold role as a bridge for communication, a platform for cooperation, and an envoy of friendship. By building consensus on development and pooling forces for cooperation, the Association will provide even stronger support for the high-quality development of Chinese enterprises in Austria, and contribute more to advancing practical cooperation across various fields under the framework of the Sino-Austrian friendly strategic partnership.

CCPIT Representative Office in Austria

中国国际贸易促进委员会 CHINA COUNCIL FOR THE PROMOTION OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Secretariat of VCUOe

The China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT), established in 1952, is a national foreign trade and investment promotion agency.

Its core functions include: supporting the implementation of China's major national development strategies in terms of promoting foreign trade, two-way investment, and economic and technological cooperation; receiving high-level overseas business delegations visiting China and arranging Chinese business delegations to visit abroad; overseeing overseas trade exhibitions organized by Chinese agencies and coordinating China's participation in the activities of Bureau International des Expositions, or BIE, and World Expos; representing and advocating for the interests of the Chinese business community in international trade and investment; participating in the formulation of economic and trade policies and regulations, foreign trade and economic negotiations, and international commercial rules; providing legal advisory services, commercial mediation, and economic and trade and maritime arbitration services; issuing certificates of place of origin, providing intellectual property services including patent applications, trademark registration, and litigation support; and supporting industries and enterprises in addressing international trade disputes and economic frictions, among other functions.

CCPIT has maintained long-term friendly relations with the Austrian business community. In December 1964, CCPIT and the Austrian Federal Economic Chamber (Die Wirtschaftskammer Österreich or WKÖ) concluded three agreements including the Agreement on the Mutual Establishment of Commercial Representative Offices. In 1966, CCPIT and WKÖ established quasi-diplomatic commercial representative offices in Vienna and Beijing respectively. This helped pave the way for diplomatic relations between China and Austria which were established on May 28, 1971. Subsequently, the functions of the CCPIT office in Vienna were incorporated into the work of the Chinese Embassy in Austria.

In 2018, the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission, also known as CIETAC, established the European Arbitration Center in Austria. With the authorization from CCPIT, the Center operated under the name of the CCPIT Representative Office in Austria. On September 18, 2023, the CCPIT Representative Office in Austria was officially re-established in Vienna.

The office carries out its work not only in Austria, but also in Slovakia, Slovenia and Croatia. It also maintains regular contact with United Nations agencies and other international organizations based in Vienna.

China National Nuclear Corporation Overseas (Austrian Branch)

中国中原对外工程有限公司 China National Nuclear Corporation Overseas Ltd.

Ordinary Member of VCUOe

Founded on April 25th, 1983, China National Nuclear Corporation Overseas Ltd. (CNOS) is a platform specialized in overseas market development of the whole nuclear industry under CNNC (China National Nuclear Corporation). As the first in China to build nuclear power projects overseas, CNOS has set the pace for the globalization of the Chinese nuclear industry.

Since its founding, CNOS has successfully built nuclear research centers and commercial nuclear power plants in countries such as Algeria and Pakistan. Among them, the Nuclear Research Center in Algeria has been praised by the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) as a "model of South-South cooperation." Through years of experience in nuclear project exports, CNOS has developed an internationally aligned and professional nuclear engineering EPC (Engineering, Procurement, and Construction) management system. The company holds the foreign contracting and labor cooperation licenses issued by the Ministry of Commerce, as well as four first-class general contracting qualifications and three second-class professional contracting qualifications granted by the Ministry of Housing and Urban-Rural Development. To date, CNOS has exported seven nuclear power units and research reactors, established partnerships with multiple countries, and accumulated extensive management experience and strong technical capabilities. The company has received numerous honors, including the National Science and Technology Progress Award and the National Defense Science and Technology Award.

CNOS adheres to the principle of "safety first, continuous innovation." In the construction of the overseas demonstration project of China's third-generation nuclear power technology—HPR1000, the company achieved several world-first milestones. On the basis of ensuring safety, it shortened project schedules, reduced construction costs, and earned high recognition from the IAEA and industry peers for its safety and quality standards.

CNOS upholds responsibility, collaboration, and mutual benefit, actively fulfilling its obligations as an exporter of nuclear power technology. It provides comprehensive technical support and operation & maintenance services for the safe operation of nuclear facilities in service, helping host countries enhance their independent nuclear facility management capabilities, and ensuring safe and stable operation of those facilities.

Following a market-oriented and globally focused strategy, CNOS integrates domestic and international resources, concentrating on international market development, project management, and operation & maintenance services. It offers global clients full life-cycle solutions centered on nuclear energy.

CNOS Austria Branch was established in April 2024. It undertakes the functions of CNNC's European Representative Office, relying on international organizations such as the IAEA to support the global advancement of CNNC's full industrial chain. Based in Vienna, the branch radiates across multiple European countries to expand markets, promoting the implementation of nuclear power, nuclear energy industry chain, and non-nuclear engineering projects.
